Now With F.M.L.

Deadline, a cat for all editions, is outgrowing fluffy ploys of kittenhood. She is now scratching proof and scanning negatives which get in the way of a good sleep in the copy baskets.

She has yet to meet her first dog, but she eyes a lot of downtown cats strolling by the front windows.

If she ever goes out and encounters a real dog, she has practiced some good feints, jumps, and turns for such a day.

She reminds me of an old gray Persian we used to have back in the Midwest who finally collided with a dog, a wire-haired terrier. The Persian ended up atop the dog's back, claws dug well into the animal's face.

Deadline is capable of such agility, but she hasn't yet demonstrated the ferocity to peel flesh from bone. She only shreds paper and reaches for the pictures.

She may enable us a first when her instincts will be so timed to skid across some plates just before presstime.

It's another reason why Deadline is a suitable name.

Inspection Shows New Jail Meets State Standards

County Judge O. B. Harden released this week a letter from the Texas State Department of Health stating results of an inspection of the new county jail on January 15.

The inspection was made to determine if the jail complies with the "Texas Minimum Standard Law for Jails," Article 5115 of Vernon's Texas Civil Statutes.

Making the report to Judge Harden was Jimmy D. Dickens, chief sanitarian of the state health department.

"The inspection revealed that the jail meets or exceeds the requirements of Article 5115," Dickens said in the letter.

Harden also asked Dickens about serving "TV dinners" to jail inmates and Dickens replied in the letter that this would be satisfactory provided food amounts, serving size, food groups, etc. are as recommended in a basic diet list.

"We were pleased to find that a new jail had been constructed for Milam County and we wish to commend you and the commissioners court for your interest in providing this facility," Dickens added.

Harden said Friday that the sheriff would start moving into the new jail on February 1.

Area Roundup

Hair Code To Continue As Is

GEORGETOWN

Georgetown school trustees voted 6 to 1 in favor of continuing the present hair code for male students. Trustees also passed motion to have a hair code policy enforced equally for all students. Athletes have previously been required to wear their hair shorter than the code permits in order to participate in the athletic program.

Hair Code Changed For Boys

ROCKDALE

Rockdale school trustees voted unanimously Wednesday to allow boys hair styles to extend to the bottom of the ear and bottom of the collar. The trustees voted approval to the R.H.S. student council's recommendation for amendments to the existing hair and dress code in the local schools. The amendment allows Afro styles up to three inches from the scalp and no braided styles.

Clay Abolishes Its Charter

CALDWELL

In an election held Jan. 11 the voters of Clay were overwhelmingly in favor of abolishing the charter for incorporating the City of Clay. With 78 voters casting ballots, 58 voted for abolishing the charter and 20 voted to maintain the incorporated city. Lawrence Wilson, mayor of Clay, who favored the abolishment of the charter, reported the election results.

Theft Ring Broken

HEARNE

The Robertson County Sheriff reports that eight persons have been arrested and a ninth charged when a theft and burglary operation was discovered and broken. Merchandise recovered will probably reach the $100,000 figure, and includes tractors, farm equipment and heavy road equipment. The theft ring mainly concentrated on Robertson, Falls, and Limestone counties.

Brown Berets Threaten City

WACO

Representing the Brown Berets, two Mexican-American citizens appeared before the Waco city council Tuesday threatening desperate action if they are not included in the bilingual operations contract soon to be awarded. Making threats against the city government were Ernest Fraga and Mrs. Ruby Calderon.

Officer Caught In Dispute

LAMPASAS

W. H. Taylor, Lampasas County adult probation officer, said that the probation office is caught in the middle of a jurisdictional dispute between county commissioners and District Judge Don Busby. Commissioners had voted to fire Taylor but later rescinded the order after they were advised that Taylor's dismissal was not within their jurisdiction.

Change On Tap For School

GATESVILLE

The Hackberry unit of the Gatesville State Schools for Boys will be vacated this month so it can be converted into a more secure unit to house chronic offenders now at the Mountain View School. The 60 boys now at Hackberry will be spread among the institution's three other units.

Country Club Closing Doors

ROSEBUD

Spring Lake Country Club near Rosebud will close its doors after Saturday night. Lack of participation and funds are given as the reasons for closing. A special committee from the membership is trying to raise enough money to purchase the golf course, swimming pool, teen room, and clubhouse and equipment. The price being asked by the Houston-based owners is $125,000.

Car Turnover

Injures Woman

A one-car turnover Thursday about 12:45 p.m. resulted in minor injuries to a Buckholts woman and damage to her car.

Receiving head and facial lacerations in the mishap was Ida Faye Seaton of General Delivery, Buckholts. Her daughter, Veda Loftin, a passenger in the car, was not hurt.

The accident occurred on FM 2269 about a fourth mile off SH 36.

County Receives Van To Transport Elderly

Milam County will now have a van for transportation of elderly citizens to various service centers in the county.

The van was presented Friday to the county with Judge O. B. Harden, Rev. Perry Richardson, and Rockdale city manager Ernie Moore accepting on behalf of the county.

The van is provided through state funds from the Governor's Committee on Aging and administered jointly by the Green Thumb Program of Texas and the Central Texas Council of Governments.

Funds for one year have also been received for parttime driver, gasoline, maintenance and storage of the vehicle. An in-kind match has been requested from the people of the county in the way of volunteer service, individual contributions and financial supports from various community clubs and organizations. These monies will provide for additional paid drivers, gasoline and maintenance.

The van will run on a daily schedule basis serving the aging of various towns and rural communities. Applications for possible drivers eligible through income and who are 55 years or older should contact the county offices to make applications. A chauffeurs license is required.

For more information contact Mrs. Patricia Epperson at 697-6894 in Cameron and Mrs. Carol Prinz at 446-2977 in Rockdale.

County Follows Trend For Fewer Accidents

Milam County followed a statewide trend for a lower number of highway accidents during 1974 as compared with the year before. There was a total of 225 accidents in the county during 1974, compared with 273 in 1973.

Though final figures won't be available until late March, it appears that 1974 was the safest year on Texas streets and highways in a decade. And if the traffic death rate per 100-millionmiles is compared with prior years, 1974 was the safest year on record.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said he believes the 1974 traffic toll will reach 3,042 when all reports are received. If so, this will be a saving of 650 lives from the record 3,692 lives lost in 1973. The latest comparable death toll was 1964 when 3,006 persons were killed in Texas traffic.

Of the 3,042 deaths, it is estimated that the final rural total will be 1,817, with 1,225 traffic fatalities estimated to have occurred in incorporated cities. Rural deaths decreased about 19.2 percent from 1973 totals, while those in cities are down approximately 15.1 percent.

Speir said the death rate per 100-million vehicle miles, which is the nationally accepted criteria of traffic safety effectiveness, is forecast to be 3.9. Last year it was 4.6, with these numbers comparing to 14.6 when the DPS first began tabulating traffic statistics in 1937.

The DPS director said total vehicle traffic accidents during 1974 were down more than six percent from 1973. The latter year saw 646,226 collisions compared to an estimated 432,000 in 1974.

"In normal times, we might have expected increases in both accidents and deaths during 1974," Speir said. He noted that both licensed drivers and registered vehicles rose last year--the drivers reaching almost 7.5 million and vehicles about 8.3 million.

The question, then, is what actually happened to cause the dramatic reduction and Speir believes the answer lies in factors associated with the energy crisis.

"It appears that vehicle miles driven declined from 80.6 billion in 1973 to just over 78 billion in 1974. This reduction in driving, coupled with the reduced speed limit, especially on rural highways, seems to have made most of the difference," Speir said.

But he also attributed credit to improvements in vehicles and highways, beefed-up enforcement, and increased public awareness generated by both governmental and private efforts.

On the subject of enforcement, the DPS chief pointed out that Highway Patrol troopers last year issued a record 678,664 speeding citations--an increase of 121 percent from the 306,668 in 1973. Moreover, the 1974 speeding arrests alone exceeded total Highway Patrol arrests for all violations in 1973.

Total arrests for all violations in 1974 exceeded 950,000.

Speir cautioned that an increasing disregard for the 55 miles speed limit, as evidenced by the arrest figures, may cause deaths to rise once more in 1975. He pointed out that the largest reductions in total fatal accidents during 1974 came early in the year when there was better voluntary compliance with the speed law.

He noted that Department of Public Safety statisticians are conducting an in-depth study of the 1974 traffic accident reports and said this information would be used to "fine tune" enforcement activities in the year ahead.

Kubiak Proposes Changing Two State Holidays

Rep. Dan Kubiak (D. Rockdale) is proposing that Washington's Birthday and Veterans Day, which became Monday holidays in 1971, be returned to their original dates.

Kubiak said Tuesday he had filed legislation in the House of Representatives returning Veterans Day to Nov. 11 and Washington's Birthday to Feb. 22.

"The primary purpose of these holidays is to honor President Washington and our veterans," Kubiak said. "Public opinion indicates these days have lost considerable meaning since the date switch, and I want to reverse that tendency."

Veterans Day was originally called Armistice Day to commemorate the end of World War I on Nov. 11, 1918. Kubiak said. Its name was changed in 1954, he added.

"The fact is, World War I did not end on the fourth Monday in October and President Washington was not born on the third Monday in February," Kubiak said.

Style Among Teen-agers...

Reality met up with Rockdale School Board's approval which voted last week to allow boys' hair length to reach the bottom of the ear and the bottom of the collar. That's pretty much the way it is everywhere, except where preoccupation with superficial differences exists between board and student community.

Somehow, length of hair means to some the degree of goodness or badness of the individual wearing the style. It is probably residue of the hippy days of the mid-and-late 60s when long hair meant drugs, rebellion, and social license.

Long hair is now style among all ages. It is an option for the male, just like crewcuts or no hair at all were back in the 1950s.

A group of students appeared before the Cameron School Board about five years ago to protest stringent rules on length here. The CISD policy has been moderate, but short of the length now allowed in RISD.

Anybody who still correlates length of hair with rebellion just refuses to read style ads in any newspaper or magazine.

If the hair is clean, trimmed, it can be attractive. Some people look better in short hair, and personally, should ignore fashion. But in the larger number, the Rockdale board decision acknowledges things the way they are in style among teen-agers.

'You Won't Know It'

Some 50 citizens, many from west Cameron, heard in a final public hearing last week the plans for the city's community betterment program, which is awaiting funding as of this time.

Promised is $492,000 to be spread over the next five or six years, under the Better Community Development Act.

Benefiting most from the new program are citizens of west and southwest Cameron, where new sewer lines will go where none are now, a new park-playground will replace vacant housing and a beer joint, and dilapidated housing will be removed.

Money is available for new housing in Cameron--problem now is that of finding lots to build the homes on. This will be remedied over the next several years as vacant, burned out housing will be removed and lots cleared for new occupancy.

Such major overhauls would be impossible under the city's present financial condition, even adding revenue sharing funds and sales tax receipts. It is well that such a program comes at this time when one successful urban renewal program is completed and an extension is funded.

In just a year or two, former residents visiting the old town will blink their eyes in surprise at changes on top of changes that are taking place these days.

"You won't know it" can well be said to these visitors and others who remember broken-down buildings downtown and the absence of public amenities in other sections of Cameron.

FARM BUREAU BLASTS
SUPER AGENCY BILL

Rep. John M. Ashbrook (Ohio)... I was very impressed with a recent speech by William Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation...

"Consumers should be alert to legislation which would establish a new super government bureaucracy to be imposed on top of all existing federal agencies, intervening in all regulatory activities of each agency, saddling business with new red tape, and adding to the cost of their operations," Kuhfuss said.

Kuhfuss said that the legislation set for introduction in the 1975 Congress calls for the establishment of a Consumer Protection Agency. Such a bill was killed September 19 in the Senate with Senator Sam Ervin of North Carolina leading the opposition. Senator Ervin's retirement places Senator Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut as chairman of the Senate's Government Operations Committee. Senator Ribicoff was the author of the original Consumer Protection Agency bill.

"Modern farm families are not only consumers of food, housing, clothing, and other goods and services necessary for family living, but they are also major consumers of industrial products used in farm production."

"Farmers buy one-fourth of all the trucks produced in America, 10 percent of the U.S. petroleum output, and five percent of the nation's steel products."

"Farm Bureau believes that government standards of quality, safety, health, and labeling have an important role in protecting consumers and we already have a wide range of more than 45 federal regulatory agencies operating in this and other areas of public concern. To keep up with all Federal regulations and proposals, the government issues a Federal Register almost daily that runs to 100 pages and requires a team of lawyers to interpret.

CRUMP'S GRASS
ROOTS COMMENT

We quote Senator Lloyd Bentsen (Texas), "The paperwork problem is overwhelming and our means of controlling it are in complete disarray. It's not going to get better; it's only going to get worse." He has formed a Federal Commission on Paperwork to look into the problem. We wish his commission "lotsa luck."

Britain's Middle Class Rises In Righteous Fury

By George Short

Reuter -- The middle class, one of the most scorned and bitterly attacked social groups in the western world, is rising up in righteous fury.

And what better place for the middle class to raise the banners of counter-revolution than in Britain -- the country which claims to have invented that particular social group.

Only a decade ago, social commentators here dismissed class as a thing of the past, and experts became used to comparing the similarities of the two main political parties.

Yet politics in Britain now are back in the grip of outright and sometimes bitter class conflict.

Against this background, the British middle class has decided to fight back. Its members have become more militant and have even gone on strike. They fire propaganda broadsides in the press and attempts have even been made to form a "middle class party."

The increasing expression of middle class fears in the media intensified recently with a string of letters to the London Times following a 1,800 - word times editorial entitled "The Anger of the Middle Class."

The Times made it clear that it agreed with what it called the middle class revolt.

The middle class organizes the country, said the editorial. Middle class man, as he tries to improve himself, "is in fact helping to pull the coach of society." And the middle class concern for its children's education "is a great advantage to their children, and through their children, to society."

One threat felt by Britain's middle class is the recent growth of the left-wing of the ruling Labor Party. Left-wing government ministers such as Industry Secretary Tony Benn are constantly attacked in the press and by employers' and business groups.

Behind the Labor left are the powerful trade unions, traditional bulwarks of the working class. And a great middle class terror is that the unions will press relentlessly with pay demands and push up inflation, causing chaos in society.

Even Prime Minister Harold Wilson has apparently become worried and appealed for an end to the policy of "big battalions," his favorite expression for pressure groups, including unions.

The Times editorial also reflected these fears, talking of middle class ambitions of betterment for oneself and one's children. "These normal ambitions are opposed by powerful forces," it said.

The paper declared, "The danger is that the two halves of society, the professional and administrative and the manual, the salary earner and the wage earner, will build up a natural resentment which denies their ultimate dependence on each other."

In a letter to the Times, one David Thompson of Sussex wrote, "It is refreshing to see the virtues of middle class morality applauded to offset the post-war fashion to denigrate it entirely."

And one Vincent Cronin, writing from London, said the editorial expressed "What I, for one, have been feeling."

On the other hand, some of the revolt of the middle class has taken on the form of joining trade unions or adopting their methods.

Professional groups like airline pilots and teachers have become more militant, and senior hospital doctors currently refuse to work their usual long hours because of a wage and hour dispute with authorities.

Australia Loosing Ties With Britain

By John Radovan

CANBERRA

Reuter -- Australia's ties with Britain have unexpectedly become a burning issue at a time when the country has been forging an independent, nationalist image.

Prime Minister Gough Whitlam, in London as part of a European tour, has tried to soothe British concern that Australia was moving too hastily away from the mother country.

But he told British Prime Minister Harold Wilson that links between Australia's six state governments and the British government, and state appeals to Britain's privy council, denigrated Australia's independence.

No sooner had this statement been reported here than the premier of Western Australia, Sir Charles Court, sent a telegram to Wilson assuring him that his (Sir Charles') government did not share Whitlam's views.

A spokesman for Sir Charles said in Perth: "The premier asked that he be given a chance to speak on the subject before Wilson made any representations to the queen."

In many ways, domestic conflicts between Whitlam's Labor Party federal government and the liberal-country party coalition governments of Western Australia, New South Wales, Victoria, and particularly Queensland, are at the core of the dispute over links with Britain.

Whitlam's insistence on independence in foreign policy applies also to his views on federal-state relationships.

Whitlam has often said that the federal government should assume more power in domestic affairs at the expense of the states. The resulting conflict between the states and the federal government has become unusually bitter.

The liberal-country party state governments see themselves as bulwarks against what they have often called labor's "creeping socialism."

Since labor came to power in Canberra in 1972 after 23 years in opposition, these states have increasingly tended to support traditional links with Britain, particularly their right of appeal to the privy council, as a safeguard against federal excesses.

The federal government has moved to have the right of appeal to the privy council abolished.

Whitlam said in London: "No people with an ounce of self respect would allow decisions made by their own judges, appointed by their own governments and sitting in their own courts, to be overruled by judges sitting in another country and appointed by the government of another country."

Nevertheless, when the federal government introduced a bill last year to give it control over all Australia's offshore minerals, Queensland and Tasmania, acting on behalf of the other states, decided to try to appeal to the privy council.

The premier of Queensland, Johannes Bjelke-Petersen, Whitlam's most hostile critic, went to London to seek the direct assistance of the British government and the queen.

The embarrassed British government sent Bjelke-Petersen to see minor officials during his stay, and the queen announced that she had rejected the states' representations.

In Canberra, jubilant labor party officials declared that the queen had upheld the exclusive right of the federal government to advise her on all matters affecting Australia.

Even among traditionalists few either here or in Britain do not accept the change in the two countries' relationship since World War II.

Britain has slowly given way to Japan as Australia's major trading partner over the past decade.

Left-Handed Boy Can Aspire To Be President

There is something sinister about President Gerald Ford.

Pictures of Mr. Ford signing legislation disclose that, like the late President Truman, he is a sinister--a left-handed person.

Sinister, the Latin word for left, has cast a cloud over lefties for centuries. The devil is depicted as left-handed, while God is synonymous with right.

One Biblical scholar found that Testaments contain 80 complimentary references to the right hand and 20 derogatory allusions to the left.

The Italian word for left, mancino, also means deceitful, in Russian, left is no-levó, with the connotation of being sneaky. In heraldry, the sinister indicates dubious parentage.

Creativity Cited

Now psychologists conclude it all has been a bum rap. Left-handed individuals not only are no trickier than their right-handed brethren, goes the new theory, but frequently more creative.

The doctors cite such examples as Leonardo da Vinci, Michelangelo, and Picasso. Nor did being left-handed hinder Julius Caesar, Alexander the Great, Charlemagne, or Lord Nelson.

Handedness is believed determined by which hemisphere of the brain is dominant, the National Geographic Society says. With most persons the left hemisphere, which governs the right side of the body, is dominant. So the majority of the world's population is right-handed.

But research indicates that when the right lobe of the brain dominates, or when neither side of the brain assumes a controlling role, the individual becomes left-handed.

More than 10 percent of Americans today are left-handed, and psychologists think the percentage might be higher if some children weren't discouraged by their parents from favoring their left hand.

Tool-oriented Society

Lefties have been discriminated against ever since men began using tools. Surrounded by right-handed implements, left-handed people appear clumsy. The French word for left, gauche, also means awkward.

A few years ago, the author of "The Left-handed Book" urged his fellow southpaws to support a Bills of Lefts and buy only left-handed products. In fact, sinistrals are faring better today than ever before.

There are left-handed playing cards, fishing reels, baseball gloves, garden and power tools, guitars, corkscrews, and can openers. Typewriters always have favored the left hand over the right.

But lefties still face right-handed zippers, and to them the layout of pay telephone booths poses a special challenge. The phone directories and parcel shelves always are on the wrong side.

LONDON

Through undercover contacts, the British government and the outlawed Provisional Irish Republican Army are cautiously inching their way along a booby-trapped road towards peace in Northern Ireland's five-year guerrilla war, British ministers are working against a deadline in planning their next moves.

ST. MALO, FRANCE

France and Canada are gently at odds over the positioning of a Canadian gift organ for a 12th Century French cathedral. It is a story straight out of Balzac or Zola, involving a clash of cultures, small town rivalries and a pinch of international politics. St. Malo cannot decide where the gift should go, after nearly four years of negotiations.

ISLAMABAD

Pakistan's pronounced leanings towards the Arab world has paid spectacular dividends since a catastrophic earthquake struck the country last month. Five of the oil-rich Arab countries, dipped into their funds and gave Pakistan 40 million dollars in relief aid.

ISRAEL

A high barbed wire fence from the Mediterranean Sea to the Golan Heights seals off the border between Israel and Lebanon. The Israelis built it to keep out Arab guerrillas. As a barrier to terrorism it largely works, the Israelis say. Yet it does not totally choke off human dialogue, Israelis and Arabs living on different sides of the fence tilling fields often hold daily conversations through the wire.

MANILA

Philippine wildlife officials are hopeful that a three-year program ending this year has helped save the indigenous monkey-eating eagle, which is in danger of becoming extinct. The rare bird is found only in the thick forests of the southern Philippine island of Mindanao, but has been endangered in recent years as man moved into the area.

NEW YORK

The penny lost its final power of purchase last week. Bubble gum went up to two cents. But if the good old penny at last seems good for nothing and the humble coin seems reduced to the role of a glove compartment accessory, there is an acute penny shortage in the United States. Of the 70 billion minted in the last 15 years, 30 billion are nowhere to be found.

FALKLAND ISLANDS

Almost all the inhabitants of the Falkland Islands want to remain under British rule, but a growing number realize that change is virtually inevitable. The question of the colony's sovereignty, which Argentina has disputed with Britain since 1832, is likely to be discussed in the near future.

In Shropshire England, it is said that a piece of hawthorn cut on Holy Thursday will protect both house and person from being struck by lightning.

Soviet Union Struggles Against Religious Thought

LENINGRAD

Reuter-- Young Russians still gather to be told what a wicked thing religion is, but they appear more curious than zealous about the fight against God.

One home of the Soviet Union's struggle against vestiges of religious thought is here in Leningrad, where a former cathedral houses the museum of anti-religious relics and atheistic propaganda.

Although a center of Atheism, the former cathedral of Our Lady of Kazan is still known to Russian passers-by as the Kazansky Sobor (Kazan cathedral).

It is a majestic building, modeled on St. Peter's in Rome, with a sweeping semi-circular colonnade of Corinthian pillars.

Napoleon's invasion in 1812 halted work on a matching semi-circle of pillars on the opposite side and later czars abandoned efforts to match up with the original design of Czar Paul.

Groups of young Russians are bussed here from schools or on tours to be lectured by well-rehearsed guides on the horrors and injustices inflicted through the ages by priests, soothsayers, cult leaders, church inquisitors, witch doctors, black magicians, and religious fanatics and devotees--right up to present day Zionism.

Zionism, presented as one of the world's great evils and prime source of inter-racial strife, gets a much more prominent place than, for example, Grigori Rasputin, the monk who shed his influence over the court of the last czar, Nicholas II.

Albania has gone much further than the Soviet Union in combating religious practice by closing all churches and mosques and turning them into theaters of warehouses. Albanian priests have been defrocked, imprisoned, deported, or executed on charges of treason.

In the Soviet Union the policy is to combat religious rites and recruitment by propaganda, and the atmosphere is relaxed. Here in the Leningrad Museum groups of young Russians pad around silently behind their guides, hardly ever asking questions.

They seem awed by the heavy baroque interior of the former cathedral and their silent parade occasionally almost resembles a devotional occasion. But there are also other behaviour patterns--those of young sailors on shore leave who eye girls in the groups, in between examining the relics.

Students, couples, and young housewives seem to use the ex-cathedral as a rendezvous point during visits to town from outlying suburbs. The museum is free of charge and warm, which makes it a suitable place for friends to meet before moving on to a theater or restaurant.

Religion in the Soviet Union today occupies a place which is becoming more and more comparable to the situation in the West.

The decline in religious observance in the West since World War II is generally attributed to the corrupting influence of consumer society and the materialist onslaught.

Even if the communist state had not zeroed in on religion as a vestige of a previous exploiting society, the trend might have been somewhat similar here anyway.

For today's gods in the Soviet Union are also consumerism and material comfort, starting with a home of one's own, then moving on to ownership of a car and a summer retreat.

Terrycloth Makes Spring Fashion News

By Chris Holcombe
Stretch terrycloth makes spring fashion news for leisurewear. Made of cotton or cotton polyester blend, it provides easy-care features. Skinny stripes and solids in bright pastels and patriotic colors contribute to the spring and summer fashion parade.

T-shirts and shorts in stripes and solids used interchangeably with a wrapped skirt give the sporty look for active wearers.

Stretch terry in swimwear and cover-ups—long and hooded—provides protection, absorbency, and airiness for the beaches and poolside activities.

Leisurewear in terrycloth mix-and-matches gives the comfort and ease of movement needed for loose, lounging attire.

The current economic situation gives families with pre-adolescent and teenage children opportunities to teach something that people need very much as they grow up—an understanding of family money and spending.

Too often, children reach adulthood with little or no knowledge about what happens in the financial area of the family.

Young adults say they never had the chance to learn much about family money, how to budget or how to plan financially for the future. These individuals seldom knew where much of the money went, or came from, as they were growing up.

In discussions of this type, a family can talk about where the family money goes, what is included in the budget or, simply, what it costs to live. Children can learn a great deal by joining their parents in frequent talks about what choices are made and why. And the children can be permitted to contribute their ideas also.

The key to family discussions about money is a positive cooperative attitude from each family member. These talks can be a learning period for pre-adolescent and teenage children if the discussions are conducted in an atmosphere of sharing concern and understanding, rather than a lecture from one person to another about carelessness with money.

Give each person the opportunity to present ideas without other family members challenging or ridiculing.

TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Fixing Fresh Citrus Segments Is Simple

AUSTIN—Preparing fresh citrus segments is simple when homemakers follow the steps suggested by Texas Department of Agriculture home economists.

First, chill whole grapefruit or orange thoroughly. With a straight-bladed sharp knife cut a slice from the top. Then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom or remove it round and round in one long spiraling cut. Always cut deep enough to remove white membrane.

Go over the fruit again, removing any remaining membrane. Now cut along the membrane of each section from outside to the core. Tip the knife outward and roll the whole section out one at a time. Section fruit over a bowl to retain juices.

The result will be whole segments, free of membrane, that can be stored in their juices in the refrigerator, used as garnishes or heaped on lettuce leaves for a fresh citrus salad.

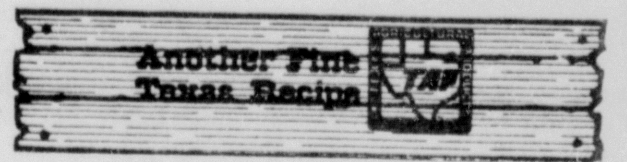

The outer colorful peel of citrus fruit has its own special uses. The peel contains tiny oil sacs that are full of subtle and distinctive flavor. When it is grated and used in place of synthetic citrus flavorings, the result is a fresh-as-fruit taste. Fresh grated peel can be frozen in sealed plastic bags or glass jars for quick and easy use.

To grate peel, wash and dry the fruit. With two quick downward strokes, remove the outer colored layer only. Slivered peel is obtained by scoring the peel into quarters and removing it with the fingers. With the tip of a spoon, scrape as much of the white membrane as possible. Stack two or three pieces at a time on a cutting board and cut into very thin strips.

Citrus shells can be filled with fresh citrus sections or other fruits for an attractive salad. To make them, cut oranges or grapefruit in half crosswise. Cut out meat with curved grapefruit knife and scrape clean with a large spoon. Edges may be notched with kitchen shears or a paring knife. For scalloped edges, outline a pattern with a coin and cut around the pattern. To prevent tipping, cut a small slice from the bottom of the shell. Shells store well in the freezer if they are sealed in plastic bags.

SEASON FOR CITRUS SALADS—Segments of Ruby Red grapefruit and oranges make a refreshing winter salad. Agriculture Commissioner John C. White recommends buying Texas citrus now while it is at its peak.

HOT-SAUCE CITRUS SALAD

4 medium oranges
2 medium Ruby Red Grapefruit

Arrange sections on lettuce leaves. Top with sour cream dressing.

Sour Cream Dressing

3/4 tsp. salt
2 Tbsp. frozen orange juice concentrate
1/2 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. hot sauce

1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1/2 cup sour cream

Blend ingredients and serve on citrus salad. Yield: 6-8 servings.

For additional recipes write Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Tex. 78711.

Dried herbs are more concentrated than fresh ones. Texas Department of Agriculture home economists recommend using about 1/4 teaspoon of a dried herb for two cups of vegetable, adding it at the beginning of cooking. With fresh herbs, increase the amount to about 3/4 to 1 teaspoon for 2 cups of vegetable.

Tuff Stuff Down Mean Jeans, 20-14

The Senior and Sophomore girls ganged together to defeat the Junior and Freshmen girls in sudden death play Thursday night. The final score came on a power play up the middle from ten yards out. Leslie Claypool took the handoff and dashed in as she avoided a tough defense.

The seniors and sophomores broke the goal-line in the opening quarter when Tina Tittsworth scrambled 40 yards for the initial touchdown. The two point conversion failed and they took the early 6-0 lead.

Early in the second quarter the juniors and freshmen struck back by driving the pigskin down the field and tallied the six points on the 25 yard play. Evelyn Pittman dashed around the left end to find the path for the TD. On the two point conversion Marilyn Brown got the call and in she went to grab the early first half lead, 8-6.

During the halftime, a group of interested students performed. Cheerleaders from both teams continued to back their teams in yell.

The juniors came back after the halftime ready to secure what looked like a sure victory. Evelyn Pittmontook the call and dashed in for the six points. The juniors and freshmen led 14-6 after the two point conversion failed.

With two minutes remaining in the game, Tina Tittsworth ramblled across the magic line to bring the seniors and sophomores with in two. On the conversion, Patricia Dohnalik saved the day for the seniors who hadn't scored a victory in their Powder Puff career.

The play over the middle netted the two points and in regulation time the game ended in a tie.

After a five minute break the game continued with the juniors and freshmen taking the opening kickoff. The seniors and sophomores took the ball deep in their own territory when an attempted punt was snapped over their heads.

Leslie Claypool ended the game when she toated the ball for six points and the winning touchdown.

The Powder Puff game is played each year to raise money for the senior class trip. After an elongated football season, the game had to be cancelled and rescheduled. The crowds still came and the project was again a successful venture for the senior class.

Eagles Hold Appreciation Banquet

The Rogers Eagles varsity and junior varsity football squads were honored Thursday night at the annual Eagles Football Appreciation Banquet. The Eagles won the district championship and advanced to Bi-District lay where they lost to Schulenberg.

Miss Jackie Freeman was crowned football sweetheart for the winning season. The crowning ceremonies were preceded by the awarding of letters to 23 players including 13 seniors, 6 juniors, and 4 sophomores.

Head football coach Donald Godwin was the guest speaker and he spoke on the necessity of character in football and in life. There was a large crowd of Eagles supporters to hear the speech that honored the 74 champs of District 28-A. The junior varsity also posted a winning season with an undefeated 10 game streak, that only allowed one tie.

Reducing plan for energy users

Plan F How to save when using electric heating

1. Keep heating equipment at top operating efficiency. Have it checked seasonally by qualified serviceman.
2. Set thermostat at 68° and leave it. Lower to 50° 60° if you'll be away several days.
3. Weatherstrip doors and windows; caulk cracks to prevent drafts and warm air loss.
4. Check the filter every 30 days on forced-air systems. If filter is permanent, clean it by manufacturer's directions; if it's disposable, replace if dirty.
5. Thorough home insulation keeps the warmth in. Can cut energy use 20% or more. Can pay for itself by lowering heating (and cooling) costs.
6. When fireplace is not in use, keep damper closed.
7. On sunny days open draperies, blinds to let in warmth of sun.
8. Open outside doors as little as possible.
9. Keep furniture, draperies away from air outlets and returns so air will flow easily. Clean annually.

PLENTY KNOTS

There can be as many as 500 knots to the square inch in a handwoven Persian carpet, National Geographic says.

In 1867, Secretary of State William Seward
made a fantastic
$7,200,000 purchase
when he bought Alaska
from Russia. At the time, people laughed—but now
"Seward's Folly" is considered "Seward's Steal!"
Back in 1905, the Detroit Tigers paid $750
for a Rookie named Ty
Cobb. The incomparable

Mr. Cobb proceeded to set 90 records, many of which stand to this day.
Quite a baseball bargain!

The unit cost of electricity is actually less today than it was in 1957
despite increased prices, say spokesmen at the Edison Electric Institute.
But the average American uses more than twice as much electricity as he did in 1957. The Consumer Price Index shows that electricity, when compared with such items

as food, home ownership, public transportation, medical care, and all consumer services, has risen less than any of these basic consumer needs. So even if your bill seems high these days, there's no disputing
the fact that electricity is an electrifying buy!

Series H Bonds. The gift that pays while he's waiting to collect.

There's a long list of traditional gifts that you give to welcome a new addition to the family.

But aside from being cute or making noise, most of them have little other value. Here's one not on the list, that makes a lot of sense, Series
H Bonds. Series H Bonds are different from Series E Bonds (the kind most people are familiar with) in that you purchase them at face value. But after that they make a nice little allowance for your child while he's growing up.

For the first ten years of his life he'll get an interest check every six months. One will come for his birthday. The other can be used to help buy some of the things he needs, or saved for something special.

And when he's ready, his H Bonds can be cashed in for the full amount you paid.

Your local bank will accept purchase applications for series H Bonds.
They are sold in denominations of $500, $1,000, and $5,000.

And since all H Bonds purchased after June 1, 1970 pay a bonus, the interest checks after the first five years will be bigger. Rates now average 5 1/2% per year when held to a maturity of 10 years.

Give Series H Bonds. The gift that pays.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. H Bonds are redeemable after six months. And always remember,
Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Alcoa Reports Net Income

Aluminum Company of America, which produces more of its metal in Texas than any other state, reported net income of $173.1 million in 1974, or $5.14 in common share. Sales and operating revenues were $2.7 billion and income from operations was $164.4 million.

Return on invested capital (shareholder's equity plus long-term debt) was 6.9 percent, compared with 4.5 percent in 1973. Return on shareholder's equity was 11.2 percent in 1974 and 7.4 percent in 1973.

Shipments of aluminum products in 1974 were 1.96 million tons and production of primary aluminum totaled a record 1.72 million tons.

"In 1974, Alcoa had a good-to-exceptional year by virtually every measure except one, the most important—return on invested capital," said John D. Harper, Alcoa board chairman and former Rockdale Works manager.

"Alcoa's return of 6.9 percent is well short of what the company needs for the capital formation required to build new facilities to meet expected increases in aluminum demand."

Harper said the company's 1974 net income, revenues and primary aluminum production were at record levels and shipments were only a slightly below the record set in 1973. The company purchased some 143,000 tons of primary aluminum from the U. S. Government during 1974, essentially completing its obligation under the government's plan for selling all of its aluminum stockpile.

"Alcoa earnings during 1974 were influenced favorably by improved prices," Harper said. "Nevertheless, earnings were reduced by sharply higher costs, particularly for bauxite, other raw materials and energy, and for wages, salaries, and benefits."

New Club For Navy, Marines

Temple has been chosen as a gathering point for Central Texas' retired Navy and Marine Corps personnel.

Purpose of the Central Texas Retired Navy/Marine Club is to represent and promote the two services within the area in any capacity necessary and for benevolent services within the organization.

Presently the club has 55 members, mostly from the Temple and Belton area with some coming as far as Coppas Cove, Rockdale, and Bruceville, representing about 1,647 years of Navy and Marine Corps service.

The only two requirements for membership within the club are to be retired from the Navy or Marine Corps with at least 20 years of active duty as officer or enlisted and to be from the Central Texas area.

Persons who meet these qualifications and wish to join may do so by attending the next meeting on Feb. 13 or by calling the Temple Navy office at 773-1711, extension 270/340.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of question and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Is it true that the IRS will figure my tax for me?

A. Yes, but you must meet certain qualifications. On Form 1040, your income must be $20,000 or less on line 15 and be made up only of wages or salaries, and tips, dividends, interest, pensions, and annuities. In addition, you must choose the standard deduction and file by the due date. Then the IRS will figure your tax for you. If you file Form 1040A you may have the IRS compute your tax regardless of the amount of your income. The instructions for both forms explain what lines to fill out so the IRS can determine your tax from the proper tax table. You will then receive a refund for any overpayment or a notification of the amount of tax due.

Q. When will I get my refund?

A. The IRS makes a special effort to send refunds back to taxpayers as quickly as possible. Those who file in January should get their refund in five weeks. Several factors can delay a refund, but you can avoid some of them. For example, be sure all the arithmetic on your return is correct, and make certain your Social Security number and your spouse's are right and that they are written in appropriate order in the blocks provided. Place the peel-off pre-addressed label from the forms package mailed to you on your return. Its use will speed the processing of your return. Finally, remember that the IRS cannot send you your refund unless you sign your return.

Q. How do I report my dividend and interest income for 1974?

A. Schedule B, Dividend and Interest Income, has been reinstated for those who have such income to report in detail. If you have $400 or less of dividend or interest

"Filibuster" originally meant a pirate!

Regulations Change For Food Stamps

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) today amended the regulations for its Food Stamp Program so that the purchase requirement for a participating household will generally be set at a uniform 30 percent of the household's adjusted net monthly income.

Responding to the many comments received from interested persons, USDA's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) made two revisions in the amendment to the regulations that it had proposed last month:

--The maximum amount that a household will be required to pay will be limited to $1 less than the amount of food stamps for which the household qualifies for the month.

--In computing the amount that a household pays for its coupon allotment, any amount that is less than a whole dollar will be dropped from the purchase requirement.

One other exception is already provided, by law, to the uniformity of the purchase requirement. Food stamps continue to be completely free for all one- and two-person households with a net monthly income of less than $20 a month, and for all other households with income less than $30 a month.

Music, Food To Spark Show

Genuine western music and genuine western food will get plenty of attention at this year's Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. The show dates are Feb. 19-March 2 with first rodeo performances on Feb. 21.

The attention on music and food comes on Feb. 22 when the best old-time fiddlers from 29 counties taking part in the show's Go-Texas program will saw and swing in a special area set aside in the Astrodome parking lot on Kirby Drive.

While the fiddlers are playing away, limited only to waltzes and breakdowns, barbecue cooks will be demonstrating their skills, turning out the succulent mean so well liked in the Southwest.

This will be the second year for both the fiddlers' contest and the barbecue contest but this is the first time that they have been combined.

The fiddlers' contest will consist of two divisions, one group consisting of those 49 and under and the other for fiddlers' of 50 years or more. The 58 county winners will be competing for the championship of the show.

The barbecue contest drew wide participation last year and Bill Bailey, chairman of the event, said that even more amateur barbecue cooks are expected to take part this year. Special rules for the barbecue contest have been set up and details can be obtained from the Livestock Show at Post Office Box 20070, Houston, 77025.

Civil Religion
Topic For Workshop

A special workshop to be conducted Feb. 24 through 26 at Baylor University will combine the expertise of lawyers, historians, and religious authorities in exploring the topic of civil religion. The workshop is being jointly sponsored by Baylor's J. M. Dawson Lectures in Church and State series and the Christian Life Commission of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Dr. James Leo Garrett Jr., director of Baylor's J. M. Dawson Church-State Studies graduate program, said the Dawson lecture series and the annual Christian Life Commission workshop were combined this year "in order to get a larger forum and more speakers for a more intensive focus on an important issue."

Ever wonder how many races a horse could win during one career? Kingston, one of the fleetest thoroughbreds ever to circle the oval, won the staggering total of 89 races in 138 starts!
